The Bones of Our Past: Jamestown and the Making of America

November 3 2:00 PM

Brent Tarter

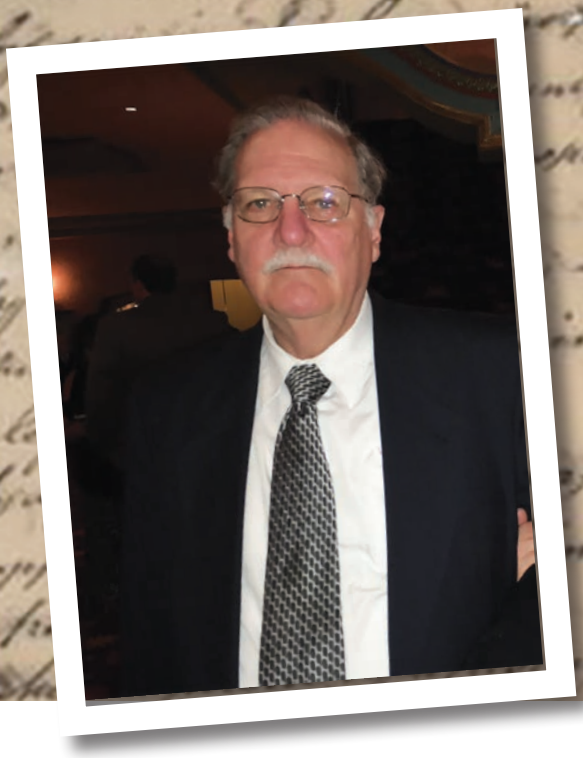
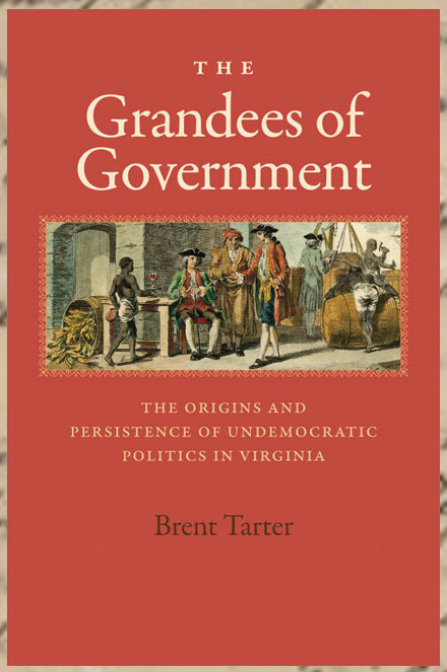
The First General Assembly of Virginia July-August 1619





Historic Christ Church & MUSEUM

Few know more about Virginia history than Library of Virginia scholar Brent Tarter, who explores the origins of Virginia's General Assembly, the first representative legislature in the New World. Tarter shows that while not originally intended as a formal lawmaking body but rather a new tool for the Virginia Company to help manage the colony, the Assembly nonetheless passed laws and became an institution of government that has shaped Virginia for four centuries.
